What is Walking With Water

From taking a sip of it to having a bath in it, water is a constant in all of our lives. But did you know that the ways you use water at home can have a direct impact on our beautiful landscape?

Water is part of an ongoing cycle which goes from running rivers to your running tap and back again. It's incredibly precious and something we can all help protect through simple daily changes.

Curious to learn more? Scroll down this webpage to discover your local walking route and be sure to download your copy of our activity booklet too for a fun guide on all the amazing things to look out for on your Walking With Water adventure.
